Being tested for AIDs is a very private affair. Very few people will admit, having to take this test, even to their closest friends. Therefore we suspect there was a lot of shouting this week over the news there may soon be a home test for HIV, the AIDS virus. It ain't really a home test, since the dried spots of blood are still sent to a lab, but users will not have to go into a doctor's office. Health officials hope this will lead to more early detection of the virus.

A special session of the Alabama legislature will begin on April 26, says Governor Folsom. That is if some sort of education reform legislation isn't passed by the lawmakers in this regular session. With the time drawing short for any such miracle and both the reform bill and the accompanying tax package stalled ... special session here we come. A month closer to election day and being asked to pass a tax? Dream on Governor! The same goes for a special session to legalize gambling.

Tonya Harding has plead guilty to the lesser charge in the saga surrounding the injury to fellow skater Nancy Karrigan. Fines totaled $160,000. For a 23 year old girl who complained of having a hard time because of no money ... add that to her own lawyer fees and someone in her crowd has some money. Maybe this money is to be paid from future income, like the movie deal, etc. Whatever, maybe this is all over now and we can get on with life. We will still have problems with all this plea bargaining stuff. If she is guilty of more serious crimes, she needs to pay the penalty just as us regular folks would have to do.

Representative Jimmy Holley and our newspaper/legislator friend Jack Venable of Tallassee joined hands last week to kill a bill which would allow Alabama car tags to carry out-of-state college mascots. A few loyal fans of the "foreign" schools will complain, but most Alabama citizens will praise the action. Personally, our old fashioned nature comes into play here and we would like to see all tags with the traditional county numbers, etc. It is no big deal either way and we realize there are many things a lot

A Wedowee, Alabama high school principal is in hot water, making the national news and talk shows over his public comments about interracial dating at the high school prom. That was dumb on his part. We have all heard and will probably always hear, such comments. History has forever recorded some form or another of discrimination. But for a professional educator, in America, in 1994, to stand up before white, black and mixed race students and call the mixed race president of the student body "a mistake" ... boy, his brain just wasn't in gear is the nicest thing we can say about that man today. If you want to employ an ex-principal with 25 years experience, we predict he will be available and soon.

Prayer in the schools has been debated on the courts for years. We still subscribe to the old theory, spoken half in jest, that as long as you give tests, students are going to pray. However the move to allow voluntary, non-sectarian prayer in assemblies, before ball games, etc. has drawn opposition from bleeding hearts. This may surprise some, but we too have reservations about such a law. Respectable preachers who oppose prayer at football games say the fans are not in the right frame of mind to be in prayer. That may be true but our problem with a law on prayer is that such a law protects everyone equally, as it should. Giving us the right to pray lowing persons admitted during the to grow could mean we wind up with every cult known to mankind demanding time period of March 15, 1994 their "rights" and conducting rituals us mainstream folks ain't never through March 21, 1994. dreamed of ... all right in front of us and our children.

Alabama is among a shrinking group of states that do not allow their citizens the powers of Initiative and Referendum. Known as I&R, this process provides a means for the citizens of a state to place proposed laws and constitutional of the people. Implementation of these powers will require adoption of a constitutional amendment, and the Alabama Legislature has two versions awaiting their approval.

Several groups have announced their support for House Bill 339 and the accompanying bill in the Senate, Bill 55. The authors of this amendment took a new approach. Rather than introducing slightly modified versions of a similar bill that has failed year after year, the sponsors started from scratch, did their homework, and came up with an amendment that is functional, itiative proposals to be re-

Angie Davis Is State Winner

THE ELBA CLIPPER MARCH 24, 1994

Angie Davis won first place in the Annual Alabama Beta Club State Convention which was recently held in Mobile, Alabama. The competition included creating and writing a fable. Before the competition began, Angie, and the 42 other participants, were given a handout which included the definition of a fable two examples of a fable, and a list of morals that could be used in writing the fable. Once the competition began, she was given a topic for the fable and had one hour to compose it. Angie based her fable on her own moral which was: "The Lord gave us two ends - one to sit on and the other to think with. Success depends on which one we use the most." Angie was given a trophy and an invitation to compete at The National Beta Club Convention at the Opryland Hotel

It was a quiet night around the Mularz house on Friday night as Melissa was spending the night with her aunt in Wicksburg, and Rozy, our exchange student, was spending the night with a friend in Elba. Melanie talked enough to help make up the difference, but by eight o'clock she was tired out and bored, and by nine o'clock we were all in bed. ELBA SHOWS PLENTY OF TALENT IN SPRING GAME

The Elba Tigers closed out spring football practice last week with their annual "Black and Gold" game and while it was hard to judge just how good the teams really were, the one thing that was easy to see was the number of talented players on the Tigers' roster for next season. Many things can change from spring to fall, but if the Tigers can keep the players in the program and working hard, Elba appears to be loaded! Che Vaughan was the #1 quarterback heading into the spring game and showed signs of the obvious skills he possesses as he led his Gold team to a 14-6 win. Vaughan has the size (6'4", 200) to hold his own with just about any defensive lineman, as much speed as any player on the field and the athletic ability to be one of the best ever at the position. For Vaughan to reach his potential; however, he must get experience and dedicate himself to having a solid off-season program. Chris Hudson was the QB on the Black team and was steady throughout the game. Hudson has been a quarterback his entire career, and although he has played a number of other positions, he has always been a steady and heady performer at quarterback. The quarterback situation looks good, with the only minus being

Elba used to be nicknamed "Running Back U," and the name may resurface this season as the Tigers also seem to be loaded with talented running backs. Chris Tyson had three 100-yard games a year ago as a sophomore and gained 120 yards in the spring game, using his speed and shifty moves, while others in the stable at tailback include Sterling Jones, a small, but shifty runner; Bobby Burks, a youngster with excellent speed and no fear of defensive players; and Rossco Coleman, a true athlete with the speed, moves and determination to be the best at any position on the field. That's four solid tailbacks, who will enjoy running behind a solid corp of fullbacks led by returning starter Detrick Kyles (210), a powerful runner and devastating blocker. D'undray Peterson (200) has also displayed the moves and power needed by a fullback, while Coleman saw action at the spot last season and his speed gives the offense a real scary look for opposing defenses.

The Elba offensive line also appears to be in good hands, with such returning starters as center Ramey Bryan (205), guards Daniel Kidd (215) and Demaris Barnes (190), tackles Bo Boyd (265) and Joey Grogg (300), as well as tight-end Cory Howe (230). Backing up this experienced bunch of returning veterans will be Todd McKee, Todd Hooks, Todd Grantham, Eddie Cowen, Kevin Tillis and Earl Perkins, making the talent and the depth in the line an obvious strength

Over on defense the Tigers are just as solid, as returning starters on the spring roster included Che Vaughan, Chris Tyson, Rossco Coleman, Todd Hooks, Eddie Cowen, Rudy Free, Bo Boyd, Cory Howe and Demaris Barnes. The defense looked outstanding in the spring game and should be

The front wall of Boyd, Barnes, Howe and Hooks has experience and knows what it's like to play in big games, such as last year's road games in the playoffs against Litchfield and St. Paul's, while Rudy Free and Eddie Cowen were both thrown into the fire many times as sophomores, and Coleman, Tyson and Vaughan all saw practically non-stop action for most takes to win, and they have some quality players backing'em up.

A 2-2 start isn't what they had hoped for, but the Lady Tigers did get the season started, and that is always a major hurdle for any team in any sport.

GAMECOCKS HOPING NEW COACH WILL BE THE ONE

New Brockton High School hired Tim Klages as its new head football coach last week, and Gamecock fans are all hoping that Klages will be the coach that returns New Brockton to its former place atop the 2A football world. New Brockton was one of the state's winningest football programs under Coach Leavy Boutwell, but has struggled ever since his departure and next season will have its third different head coach in the past four years. It's hard to build a program when the person in charge keeps changing, and maybe Coach Klages is the man that will give the Gamecocks the stability they so badly need.

New Brockton has one of the best booster clubs of any town its size in the state and is always willing to do anything to help any of the sports in the city, and the boosters will come to the support of their new coach and make sure he gets the best of everything in the effort to turn the football program around. A new beginning is about to take place in New Brockton and I hope it is the beginning of a lot of good times for everyone involved 8th annual WZTZ/Playmaker Sports in New Brockton athletics.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY....

*Auburn's Coach Tommy Joe Eagles showed a lot of class last week in the manner in which he handled his resignation at Auburn. Coach Eagles could have fought those who wanted him ousted and may have even received another year to get the job done; however, he knew that many of his supporters also felt it was time for a change and in resigning did what was best for the overall program. There may be some doubt about his ability to coach and recruit at a school the size of Auburn, but there can be no doubt about Coach Eagles being a class act.

Umpires clinic in Troy on March 25 Ron Gant from the roster. Gant was a crowd-pleaser at times with his long home-runs and late inning heroics; however, Gant was never a big-game player and always seemed to disappear in post-season action. I didn't think he was worth anywhere near the $5.5 million salary the Braves gave him for the '94 season, and now that he is gone, maybe the Braves will bring along some of their younger players and keep building for the fu-

The so-called experts on the major networks never even gave Alabama a chance of beating Providence in the opening round of the NCAA Tournament, in spite of the fact that Providence was just an average team until the Big East Tournament, and probably wouldn't have even made the 64-team field if it had not played well in the post-season event. Alabama had started slowly and lost to Charleston by 22 points, a fact that was mentioned a few hundred times; however, the Tide had played well late in the season and earned their spot in the tourney prior to the SEC Tourney. The real reason Alabama was the underdog was that the Big East is the most publicized and overrated conference in the nation, and the major networks are located in the East. Bama showed that the schools down south also know how to play basketball, and no doubt will have to do it again and again over the years.

Auburn University made a very wise move last week when it named David Housel the school's new athletic director. Housel has been at Au-burn for many years and has moved up in the ranks due to his hard work and dedication, and was regarded as one of the top sports information directors in the nation. He is an Auburn man through and through and truly bleeds orange and blue. Auburn has had some hard times in athletics over the past several years, but under the leadership of someone like Housel, the Auburn athletic program should be on firm footing for quite some time. Housel deserved the position and was clearly the man for the job.

Since my dear friend went away.

So young you had to go, Why I'll never know.

You left in the still of the night,

At that point you had won your fight.

You were a big inspiration,

That's why we'll never forget.

I miss your talk, your smile and your ears that you often lent.

Most of all, I miss my dear friend.

I never knew when you were down,

To fill an angel's space.

He knew you had won your race,

Now you're in a better place.
